

Darcy Rose (Peer Review)

Darcy is a very calm and hardworking group mate. When we were assigned the task to design the website, she took the initiative to create the GitHub link and was instrumental in helping us solve problems calmly and effectively. Whenever conflicts arose, such as merge conflicts, she always tried to solve the problem quickly and came up with helpful solutions. Every time we shared our work with each other, Darcy was very motivating and consistently encouraged the team. She patiently explained how to use fonts and, whenever we asked about the changes needed for our pages, she clearly and kindly explained everything. Her supportive attitude and clear communication greatly enhanced our group's collaboration and progress. Darcy's dedication and willingness to assist others made her an invaluable member of our team. She also inspired confidence and helped keep the team focused and positive throughout the project.

Arianna Huntley (peer review)

Ariana Huntley is a very supportive and encouraging group mate. When we were deciding who would work on each page, she was open and kind with her choices, and we often discussed how to fix margins and improve the website's responsiveness. For example, when I had an issue with the margin on the title bar, she took time to explain how I could fix it and shared how she solved similar problems on her pages. Ariana consistently shared helpful ideas and listened carefully to others, motivating the team as we reviewed each other's pages. She creates a collaborative atmosphere where everyone feels heard, and her positive attitude helped keep the project on track and the team focused. Her teamwork and kindness strengthened our group and improved the final result. Ariana also took time to explain things clearly, making it easier for everyone to contribute their best. She always encouraged us to keep improving and working together smoothly.
